PRESIDENT ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Marked Improvement Shown After A Restful Night—Temperature Near Normal But Respiration and Pulse Still High.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 2.—The following official bulletin was issued at 9:50 o'clock this morning on the president's condition:
"The president had several hours of restful sleep during the night and except for the marked exhaustion of an acute illness, expressed himself as feeling easier this morning. The temperature is 100.2 degrees, pulse 100 and respiration from 32 to 40. The lung condition shows definite improvement. Small quantities of food are taken and elimination remains satisfactory. While recovery will inevitably take some little time we are more confident than heretofore as to the outcome of his illness."

(Special)
"C. E. SAWYER, M. D."
"RAY LYMAN WILBUR, M. D."
"C. M. COOPER, M. D."
"J. T. BOONE, M. D."
"HUBERT WORK, M. D."

San Francisco, Cal., August 2.—President Harding had another restful night and continued to make marked improvement today on his road to recovery, it was announced at 8 o'clock this morning by Dr. Sawyer.

The president awoke early this morning after a refreshing sleep without any traces of fever whatever. His temperature at 8 o'clock was 98.6, his respiration 32 and his pulse 110, reflecting improvement on all points over the previous medical bulletin issued yesterday.

"The president had a restful night," said Dr. Sawyer after he and Dr. Joel T. Boone had completed their preliminary examinations of the patient, between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning.

Now that the president's temperature is down to normal, it has been the pulse and respiration that have been giving the doctors considerable concern, as both have been abnormally high.

Overnight, however, there was an appreciable drop in both, and the physicians were much elated therefore.

Yesterday the president's pulse varied from 116 to 120, and this morning it dropped to 110. The respiration varied yesterday from 36 to 40 and this morning's examination revealed it is now down to 36.

Both pulse and respiration are still too high, the physicians pointed out, but they feel, nevertheless, that satisfactory progress is being made and they apparently are confident that the progress already attained will be maintained during the day.

After the preliminary examination this morning by Doctors Boone and Sawyer, the medical staff gathered for the usual morning consultation, after which a medical bulletin will be issued.

There was every indication even before Dr. Sawyer's announcement that the president had passed a restful night. He slept the early part of the night, awoke early and called for Dr. Boone on duty in an adjoining room. Mr. Harding chatted with the physician and appeared to be in excellent spirits.

San Francisco, Aug. 2.—President Harding started in today on what Dr. Charles E. Sawyer, his chief physician, termed the "long, difficult road to convalescence."

The president is officially "out of the woods" in his battle against the combination of diseases which have kept him bedfast since Saturday, but the concern of the doctors is to maintain the ground gained during the last few days.

Conditions were such early this morning as to make them hopeful that the executive will have no setback, yet their every concern through the night has been to minimize the possibilities of such a contingency.

"The road to convalescence is a long, tedious one," said Dr. Sawyer. "We are likely to have our ups and downs and anything is liable to happen."

Dr. Sawyer said the public should be warned against accepting the rapid recovery made to date as indicative of how the president is going to speedily become well. He terms the progress to date as "very satisfactory" and "fortunate" and his caution today was against "over confidence."

This restful sleep which the president has succeeded in getting for the last few nights has been perhaps the most valuable single aid in restoring the president to that stage which the doctors term convalescence. The sleep has largely overcome the nervous exhaustion which Mr. Harding was suffering from to a marked degree when he arrived in San Francisco. The more he can sleep, the doctors said today, the more rapid will be his complete recovery.

Others of places other than the Palace Hotel for the president to stage his convalescence have poured in by the score in the last few days. California seemingly wants the president to convalesce at some particular spot, but it is extremely doubtful if Mr. Harding will be moved from the eighth floor of the Palace Hotel until he is moved to the train to return to Washington.

Dr. Sawyer's voice is the determining one in the plans and he is strong of the opinion that the president is settling along so well in his present location that it would be inadvisable to remove him until the return journey to the capital can be safely at-

BALDWIN WILL APPEAL TO WORLD

In Deadlock With French Over Reparations Policy—To Make Public Correspondence With French In Hope of Increasing Pressure For Speedy Settlement.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 2.—Official statements made in Parliament today indicated that Great Britain will appeal to the world to force a settlement of the Ruhr-reparations issue. It is possible this may prove the first step towards independent British action. The allied negotiations are deadlocked and the British are seeking outside pressure to force France to show her hand.

Premier Stanley Baldwin in the House of Commons and Foreign Secretary Curzon in the House of Lords made identical statements upon the reparations problem. They did not reveal whether Great Britain intends to negotiate separately with Germany and both avoided mentioning the possibility of a break with France.

The statements indicated Great Britain would await world reaction to today's invitation before taking the next step.

Both statesmen declared that the French and Belgian replies to the British reparations note held out no hope for a joint answer to the German reparations offer of June 7, or an early settlement of the problem. Curzon said Baldwin said that Great Britain will publish her reparations notes showing the world her endeavors to bring about a settlement.

Hope was expressed that this action "might convince the world of the imperative necessity for prompt and united action."

The statement today showed that Great Britain has determined upon a more aggressive reparations policy.

WHERE FRENCH AND BRITISH NOTES CONFLICT

While the British, French and Belgian reparations notes have been made public it is understood, that the two sets of views contrast as follows:

France — Demands cessation of passive resistance in the Ruhr before reparations negotiations are opened; insists upon retention of French troops in the Ruhr until Germany pays; opposes the appointment of an international commission to fix the exact amount of indemnity Germany must pay.

England — Suggests appointment of an international tribunal to fix the exact amount of German reparations and the method of payment favors a more lenient policy towards Germany economically and the restoration of German industries and mills to enable the Germans to get upon their feet.

tempted.

Mr. Harding himself is feeling so fit that he has already begun to feel a little impatient at remaining long in San Francisco. He said Dr. Sawyer last night:

"What do you think about getting away on Sunday?"

Dr. Sawyer's reply was non-committal, but it is very doubtful if any attempt will be made to move for a week at least. The progress and the president has been so comfortable, that the physicians are chary of instituting a setback through over eagerness to get the chief executive back to the White House.

Mr. Harding is beginning to show slightly the strain she has been under during the past week. So long as the president's condition was considered "grave" she bore up with a fortitude considered remarkable in view of her own state of health. But now that the convalescence stage has been reached she appeared tired and the physicians today were urging her to get rest and more fresh air than she has been getting. They have told her that she cannot risk having a breakdown at this stage.

"The lung condition" referred to in the official bulletin, is continuing to improve. This refers to the white patches indicating broncho-pneumonia, and their appearance Monday night in the clinical examination, later confirmed in the X-ray examination, all along has been the most menacing and alarming factor in the president's case. These patches are now clearing up, and virtually all danger of pneumonia has now fled.

The great job ahead of the physicians today, they said, lies in building up the president's strength by slow and easy stages. There is no royal or easy road to this improvement, Dr. Sawyer said, and anything precipitate or hurried is likely to lose in a few hours the ground gained over several tedious days.

The president's digestive facilities are still badly impaired as a result of the poisons from the ptomaine attack and the purgatives administered so freely during the first few days of his illness and they require "nursing along."

Dr. Sawyer's voice is the determining one in the plans and he is strong of the opinion that the president is settling along so well in his present location that it would be inadvisable to remove him until the return journey to the capital can be safely at-

Joseph Huffner was seized with a hemorrhage as he entered his home at No. 16 St. Mary's street for breakfast this morning and died a few minutes later. Mr. Huffner was confined to his home during the winter for several weeks with an attack of the flu and had never fully recovered his health and strength.

For several years he had been employed as driver of one of the delivery wagons of Weber's bakery on Hasbrouck avenue. This morning he arose at his usual hour and went to the stable and hitched up his horse and drove to the bakery for his supply of bread and rolls and made the early morning delivery.

After covering the route he returned to the bakery and left his rig while he went to his home for breakfast. He was just entering the house when seized with the hemorrhage which resulted in his death.

Mr. Huffner was born and brought up in Kingston and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was a man of a sunny, genial nature and made many friends easily. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Mary Long of this city, and two small children. Six sisters, Mrs. Philip Horvath of Brooklyn, Mrs. Henry Melbert of this city, Mrs. Margaret Huffner of this city, Mrs. Jacob Hutton of Beacon, Mrs. Thomas Burke of this city, and Mrs. William Greenwald of Red Hook, also survive.

The funeral will be held from the late residence, No. 16 St. Mary's street, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and from St. Peter's Church at 9:30 o'clock, where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment will be in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

According to his physicians he is taking quite enough to maintain his strength.

MONROE AND NEPHEW CAPTURED

"Bad Bill" and Barrett Being Brought Back To Poughkeepsie On Murder Charge—Were in New Jersey.

Poughkeepsie, Aug. 2.—"Bad Bill" Monroe and Edward Barrett, both sought for the murder of Alvin Karpis, who was brutally slain in his shack on the estate of the Countess d'Ivry, were captured in New Jersey last night and are being brought back to Poughkeepsie for trial.

Details of the capture have not been learned, but it is rumored that a posse, starting in the mountains of Sullivan county, where "Bad Bill" had often flown to escape punishment for lesser crimes, followed the trail over the state line.

The crime was a particularly atrocious one, inasmuch as relatives of the dead man are supposed to be involved. Monroe is accused of having crept up on Barrett in his cabin and half his head cut away with the blow of an axe. The body was not discovered for days. The crime was first discovered, was ascribed to a madman, as Barrett, though dead, had been tied with rags and ropes too. Several thousand dollars were missing from the shack.

William Barrett, believed to be a brother of Andrew Barrett, was arrested at Dover Plains by State Troopers this afternoon. He is being held to give an account of his movements on the day of the murder, as it is known that there was bad feeling between his brother and himself. William knew that his brother kept large sums of money in the shack.

A hole discovered today in cobwebs, which have long covered an unused wall beside the shack led to the belief that something connected with the crime had been thrown into it.

Attempts were made to investigate, but the authorities were unable to reach the bottom. Further efforts will be made to drag the well for blood-stained clothing or weapons.

W. D. CASHIN IS THE DARK HORSE

Conservative Democrats Said to Favor His Nomination for Mayor This Fall—Democratic Party Is Full of "White Hopes"—Caucuses Tonight.

Will William D. Cashin prove the dark horse at the unofficial convention of the Democratic party to be held at the Kingston Opera House on August 17?

Conservative Democrats are said to be strongly in favor of his nomination for mayor this fall.

This is not the first time that Mr. Cashin, who has served as a member of the board of police commissioners, has been mentioned for the Democratic nomination for mayor.

There is said to be a strong sentiment against the naming of former Mayor Morris Block which has been developing ever since the meeting of Chairman James J. Murphy's committee at the city hall several evenings ago.

While in past years the Democratic party was lacking in patriots, this season there seems to be an unusually large crop of majority aspirants.

Among those who are in the field are Alderman William B. Martin of the Twelfth ward; Alderman Henry Mac-hold of the Ninth ward; former Mayor Morris Block, and William D. Cashin.

There has also developed a fight over the nomination for alderman-at-large, and it is said that Chairman Murphy has decided that none of the names mentioned at the city hall will be favored. At that time the names of Alderman J. Philip Belcher of the Second ward and Alderman Michael A. Cashman of the Third ward were mentioned.

Just what Chairman Murphy's candidate is, is being kept a deep, dark secret locked in the breast of Mr. Murphy alone.

This evening the Democrats will hold caucuses in the various wards to elect delegates to the unofficial convention, and it is understood that Chairman Murphy is very anxious to have the men he named on his committee selected as the delegates to represent the city.

The Democrats of the Ninth ward will meet in the former polling place on Andrew street. Arrangements have been made by Alderman Mac-hold to hold the polls this season in the library, but the caucus will be held tonight in the Gregory plumbing shop.

STATE MEDIATORS BROUGHT GLASCO STRIKE SETTLEMENT

Among the strikes which State Industrial Commissioner Bernard L. Shientag announces that the Department of Labor has settled recently is the one at Glasco, N. The state commissioner says that the mediators of the State Labor Department succeeded in bringing employers and employees together.

DR. WEINSTEIN, VICTIM OF BREAKDOWN, MISSING.

Dr. Julius Weinstein of 639 West End avenue, New York city, who was at the Dr. C. G. Sahler Sanatorium, this city, for some time, being treated for a nervous breakdown, and who was released about two months ago to reside with relatives, Philip Levine and wife in Brooklyn, has been reported missing to police headquarters, New York. He disappeared on July 4 after going on a shore walk, having failed to return.

He was a specialist in stomach troubles with a large practice and gave up his practice a year ago because of a nervous breakdown. Dr. Weinstein is 49 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches tall, gray eyes and hair and light complexion. He weighed 123 pounds, wore a gray suit with a blue stripe, a blue bow tie, black low shoes and a straw hat.

EXPOSITION SPACE NEARLY GONE WITH OPENING THREE WEEKS AWAY

With Greater Advertising, Warmer Weather and Larger Attractions, This Year's Exhibit Promises To Far Outshine That of 1922.

The committee which has in charge Kingston's big Industrial Exposition, which opens at the Kingston Fair Grounds, Inc., on August 27, and continues for the week, is meeting with wonderful success in the disposition of spaces, and only 13 more available spaces are to be had. These will be disposed of in the next few days and local merchants who desire to be represented at the Exposition should make immediate arrangements. M. H. Herzog and Mr. Coe, of the Chamber of Commerce, will take care of the arrangements.

With the date of the opening about three weeks off, spaces remaining will now be disposed of rapidly and as the number left is limited anyone desiring to be represented should get in communication immediately with those in charge before it is too late. The number of spaces is limited by the size of the tent and when the remaining thirteen spaces are gone there is no chance to be represented in the Exposition.

There will be a number of features introduced at the Exposition in the way of entertainment and Louis V. Hanvey, who will have charge of the entertainment, promises entertainment which will be instructive as well as entertaining. Mr. Hanvey already has a number of the acts booked and nothing but top-liners will be on the board for the week.

Kingston's Exposition will be advertised extensively throughout this and surrounding counties and with the weather at all favorable there will be record crowds. The Exposition last year, which was held during extremely chilly weather, far exceeded the expectations of the promoters and with better conditions this season a still larger crowd may be expected.

Secretary Coe, of the Chamber of Commerce, is in New York making final arrangements for decorations and taking care of other details pertaining to the Exposition.

The contract for lighting has been awarded to Tudoroff Brothers, electrical contractors, and calls for lighting which will make every nook and corner of the big tent brilliant at night.

In a few days the committee on entertainment will be in a position to announce the program so far booked.

The following exhibitors will be at the Exposition at the Fair Grounds from August 27 to September 1, inclusive:

THE GOAT PASTURE

"Ba-a-a, Ba-a-a, Ba-a-a," said young Miss White-and-Brown-Spotted Goat.

"Ba-a-a, Ba-a-a, Ba-a-a," said Mrs. White Goat.

"Ba-a-a, Ba-a-a, Ba-a-a," said Mrs. Brown Goat.

"I think the same," said Miss Black Goat.

"What do you think?" asked Mrs. Striped Goat.

"I think the same as the other goats," said Miss Black Goat.

"But do you know what they think?" asked Mrs. Striped Goat.

"Oh, in a general way," said Miss Black Goat, "and that is enough for me. A goat doesn't have to be too fussy, you know."

"Well," said Mrs. Striped Goat, "I suppose you're right. But I've been thinking that we do have a nice time here."

"Yes," said Mrs. White Goat, "you're right. We have a beautiful time. We are treated in a nice gentle fashion, as cows are treated, and so we, too, give milk, and so we, too, act in a quiet and gentle fashion."

"Oh, it's a pleasant life," said Mrs. Brown Goat. "In the mornings we are brought out to pasture and in the evenings the master and the dog come and lead us back to our stalls and our stable yard."

"But all day long we graze and eat and dream goat dreams. I don't suppose people have any idea of the dreams that goats have."

"Well, it's hard to tell one's dreams, but I know that my day-dreams are lovely ones. I dream such happy,

"What Do You Think?"

cheerful, contented dreams, and when I awake I find myself surrounded by all that is happy and cheerful."

"You find yourself surrounded by goats, ba-a-a, ba-a-a, ba-a-a," said Miss White-and-Brown-Spotted Goat.

"Yes, that is so," said Miss Black Goat.

"You aren't altogether telling things as they are," said Miss White-and-Brown-Spotted Goat.

"Oh, why spoil my pleasant story?" asked Mrs. Brown Goat.

"For the sake of the exact truth," said Miss White-and-Brown-Spotted Goat.

"You know," she continued, "that we do have our little quarrels and sometimes we're hucking our friends and neighbors and each other."

"Oh, well," said Mrs. Brown Goat, "we have to have a little fun and excitement."

"To be sure, ba-a-a, ba-a-a, ba-a-a," said the other goats.

"Oh, well," said Mrs. White Goat, "as far as that goes, cows, too, get excited sometimes and go dashing about their fields and even get lost and get most excited."

"Why, there was that young bossy cow three farms down the road, and she ran away from home and went wandering through the thickets and along the brooks, and they had a dreadful time catching her."

"She frightened some people who were taking a walk."

"She went jumping in her big, heavy, awkward way through the thickets and all."

"But for the most part we're well-behaved. We play together and have ever so good a time together."

"We all know our master, and the master's dog, and we never think the master who owns the goats in the next field is our master."

"Oh, no, we know our own."

"And I think we get along very well together, considering that there are more than a hundred of us."

"There are lots of goat farms around these parts, and I think that is nice."

"Ba-a-a, ba-a-a, ba-a-a, If goats aren't going to think well of goats we can't expect others to do so."

"But goats think well of goats, and so others think well of us, too. Maybe that isn't their reason, but at least they do think well of us, for they have so many of us about."

"Ba-a-a-a-a-a-a, we're good-natured, nice goats."

"And then the goats bleated this ditty:

Oh, goats are nice and we know it's true. We're goats ourselves and we like to tell you. Goodness no! We're goats! We know! Ba-a-a-a-a-a-a, ba-a-a-a-a-a, ba-a-a-a-a-a!

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE FOR DINNER?

When sandwiches are so often in use during the summer a different kind of bread will add variety to the menu.

Orange and Nut Bread.—While oranges were plentiful early in the year the careful housewife prepared a pound or more of candied orange peel to use for various dishes as well as a confection. This bread will need a half cupful of candied orange peel chopped, five cupfuls of pastry flour, one cupful of graham flour, one teaspoonful of salt, six teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of sugar, and one-half cupful of chopped pecan meats. Beat one egg, add one cupful of milk to the sifted dry ingredients, then combine the fruit and nuts. Turn into a buttered loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

Ragout of Liver.—Cut one pound of calf's liver into dice, and put it over the fire in cold water or stock, to cover. Cook one hour, add seasoning and salt, pepper with a little ground nutmeg, a spring of parsley and a little sweet marjoram. Rub together two tablespoonfuls of browned flour with one of butter, add this to the sauce pan with one teaspoonful each of lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Stir until thick and serve dotted with cubes of currant jelly.

Arabian Pudding.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter with three tablespoonfuls of sugar, add one well-beaten egg, three tablespoonfuls of sweet milk, one cupful of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-quarter of a cupful of any chopped nuts, twelve dates stoned and cut in pieces. Mix and bake in a well-buttered pan. Bake twenty minutes. Serve with the following sauce: Take one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour well mixed, the juice and rind of a lemon and a scant pint of boiling water, cook until smooth, adding a tablespoonful of butter and a grating of nutmeg just before serving. A spoonful of jelly will give the sauce both color and flavor.

GIANT RODEO AT STATE FAIR

Amusements, Heretofore Frowned Upon, Will Be Present in Great Variety This Year.

By Telegraph to The Freeman, Albany, Aug. 2.—Reversing the policy followed for several years, the New York state fair commission will emphasize amusements at the state fair at Syracuse this fall.

The commission is planning to present a stellar bill of free vaudeville, drafted from standard variety acts suitable for outdoor showing. The Midway, always a stamping ground for the young and old who are interested in seeing the unusual, will be retained and made more attractive than ever. If that is possible.

For several years the fair commission has frowned upon the amusements that will be made a special feature this year. Following last year's fair there was considerable criticism of the lack of enthusiasm at the fair, and the commission hopes to overcome this by giving the patrons of the fair some good vaudeville.

On the vaudeville program there will be an elephant act, a comedy circus, trained seal act and three special acrobatic features.

There also be a giant rodeo, composed of two such organizations. The rodeo organization has promised the fair commission to bring the real thing in bucking horses and wild steers from the west. It is expected that this attraction will bring additional thousands to the fair.

There will be band concerts each day at the fair and on one day bands from all parts of the state will compete for special awards. In all events there will be plenty of music for the musical.

Grand circuit races will be held during the first five days of the exposition. The last day, Saturday, will be motor day with the national motorcycle champions as one feature and the 100-mile dirt track auto championship race as another. The best of the drivers appearing in the Indianapolis and Kansas City races are expected to take part in the latter event.

Novelty Goods for Fall-Winter Wear

All-Over Wool Velours de Laine is in China or Heather Mixture.

Now that summer is well under way, materials for fall and winter are being offered, says a fashion authority in the New York Tribune. In Paris visiting buyers of novelty wool and silk fabrics are buying freely of the new novelties.

Two novelties which have found high favor are technelaine and technelaine pekin, both of which are of the same weave—an all-over wool velours de laine of the softest quality woven in a chine or heather mixture, sometimes in cashmere colorings or in two or three tones of one color. These will be principally used for handsome topcoats. They will be used to some extent in the making of suits, although they are rather heavy for this purpose.

Another novelty in a velours de laine effect is mosaicagnelle—a sort of cut or pressed pattern representing a mosaic. This comes in a beautiful series of colorings in solid tones. Still another marked novelty is les paves agnelle marbres. The agnelle pattern in relief shows a sheared fur-like surface in mixed and two-tone colorings, giving the effect of marble.

Grainurallaine is the name of a pompon surface fabric. The pompoms are arranged in a striped pattern on a serge background. Crepella confetti imprimi, another pompon weave, has a background of wool crepella. In the pattern the pompoms are set very close together. For instance, on a background of red, green and yellow crepella, pompoms in the same colorings which measure about three-eighths of an inch in diameter are woven at intervals of less than an inch, thus leaving one-quarter of an inch space between them at the narrowest point.

Still other novelties are zibilkasha, du laos, a kasha zibeline with effective zig stripes; panvellaine cashmere, an extremely odd fabric, with a mosaic-like pattern in cashmere colorings on a dark background, and emillette, a material which looks like sheep's wool, a perfect imitation of this fleece.

Charming Costume for General Summer Wear

A beautifully soft color combination is illustrated in this charming summer costume. The skirt is a variation of pastel pinks and grays, while the blouse is of gray crepe de chine, trimmed with pink soutache braid.

Summer Fashion Notes of Interest to Women

A popular type for evening dresses is the chiffon model made over a silk slip. Colors are coral, tomato, jade or white, and silver ribbon makes the finish.

Spice hats, which are new and attractive, are covered with colorful embroidery done in chenille. These are soft and may easily be tucked into one's traveling bag.

The smart cockades made entirely of ribbon which are used to trim hats and frocks may be bought already put together in different sizes and color combinations.

The woman who likes to cross-stitch will be interested in curtains of white dimity stamped for cross-stitching in dark blue. The effect is very pretty.

Painted silk frocks are a novelty this season. The paint is applied rather thickly to give a raised surface. The frocks are cut on the straight chemise pattern and only loosely caught about the waist with a wash of the plain silk.

It is quite the proper thing these days to match your gloves and stockings, particularly if you are wearing a strictly tailored suit.

Monograms have become so popular they are now appearing on coats. A blue serge suit is bound with red and belted and monogrammed in the same color. The monogram appears on the sleeve.

Obedience to Law.

No people can be called fully civilized until there is widely diffused among its members the sense of obligation, not merely to obey the law, but to obey it willingly, and co-operate in enforcing and maintaining it.—Ramsay Muir.

FRENCH CRIMINAL
GIRLS' LOT HARDImprisoned in Castle Prison, Working Long Hours.

UNDER STRICTEST DISCIPLINE

Although child crime in France are so numerous as might be expected, the four years of war when fathers were killed, mothers often sought refuge in ammunition factories to help the men folk, thereby leaving children in the hands of aunts, uncles, or in the care of the state, and often in danger of being ill-treated, it has, nevertheless, been necessary in many cases to put youthful girls away in prison.

While the boys find shelter in reformatory schools, where they are usually maintained until they reach the age of twenty-one or until such as their conduct might induce the guardians to let them out as "free" girls are put away in a huge castle, formerly the property of royalty, at Clermont, 80 miles from Paris. Here some 200 girls, most of them victims of childish temptation, are secluded from the rest of the world by a wall 90 feet high through which there is but one small aperture which is placed a solid iron gate. The only sign of exterior life which these hapless girls of the joys of the world is the rippling laughter of smaller children, boys and girls, playing in the country road on the other side of the wall.

Inside the walls and surrounded by large park, across which the girls rarely romp, is the immense castle, today a prison in charge of a score of French nuns. There girls are not allowed to wear jewelry or a glittering coin or jewel work and late for many weary months in an attempt to regain their freedom of good conduct and hard work, they sit at a long table busily sewing a dainty lace in fine underwear made for their older and more fortunate sisters outside. Others bend over trays of potatoes or other vegetables, getting ready for meals. Others wash their dishes. For every ten sewing girls there is one pair of scissors put away out of their reach. When work is finished, usually when night begins to fade outside.

Every day apart from other work they have to attend classes, where the girls of honorable living is named into their nervous and fearful systems. After school and other work the better-behaved girls are allowed a few minutes' recreation followed soon after by a hurried "dinner" consisting of soup and a fig.

Speech between any of the "inmates" of the prison is forbidden. There are scores of young and would-be happy girls in the home who have uttered a word for nearly twenty years. They are resigned to their lot and move around the establishment merely counting the days when they shall have reached the age of freedom of speech and action and have been given back to them. Three days a week they are given a bath. That is their only luxury. They are in huge dormitories capable of holding twenty prisoners, each with a caselle apparatus wherein is a jug of water, a comb and brush, and through the long night the girls are watched over by a nun, while any attempt to snoop is quickly repressed by the muscular arms of male guards hurriedly summoned by the girls. Twice a month they are given a piece of cold water. If well behaved they receive a certain number of good marks at the end of the month, and a bad number of good marks often fetches their sentence by eighteen months or two years.

Hard Lot of Bad Girls.
Girls so treated are considered "cured." The "bad characters," usually made up of girls who have already been through the home, been set at liberty and have returned there for the new charge, are kept away in cells, heavily barred and locked. Some of these unfortunate young women, some of them not twenty years of age, have those cells for months at a time.

Although the ages of these inmates range from sixteen to twenty-five, it is stated that only about 65 per cent. are free, become honest and lead a normal life. Some have been known to marry in the neighborhood at times visit the establishment and harbor them during the best of their youth because one day they had stolen a few francs.

When their prison term is over many of the girls place themselves at the disposal of the nuns who seek to do good for them. Others go drifting through life and perhaps with sad recollection of lost joys only deeper and deeper into crime.

WOLF SHOT IN TOWN

Marshall Hays Anamel, thinking it a bad dog, shot a wolf inside the limits recently. He was called to the scene on South Albany street, where a woman who said there was a wolf under the grape arbor. He went to the spot and on approaching the animal it snarled several times. He shot it with a revolver and discovered a killing it that it was a large wolf.

Pacific Coast babies have proved more hale and hearty than their brothers and sisters living in other sections of the country. No longer does the tenderfoot East set the pace as an example of how to live the perfect life. This is the view of Dr. George B. Palmer, director of research, American Child Health Association, who is shown in the inset. He says:

"Horace Greeley was right. 'Go West, young man, go West,' he said. The young man went and found it an excellent place to bring up his family. The most attractive spots for babies have just been revealed by the publication of the infant mortality statistics for 1922 in 635 cities of over 10,000 population, as compiled by the American Child Health Association. Oregon, represented by four cities of over 10,000 population, is the winning State with a rate of 58.6. This means that during the year out of every thousand babies born 58.6 died. Fifty-eight and six-tenths seems a lot but it is the best record made by any state in the Union. Oregon's rate may be compared with Tennessee where 108 out of every thousand babies born failed to reach their first birthday.

"Taking the figures for each state and averaging them for sections of the country, the Pacific Coast trio—Washington, Oregon and California—win first honors with a rate of 60.7. The west-north central section, represented by Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri is second with a rate of 69.8. The best showing east of the Mississippi is that of the east-north central section, represented by Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. The rate was 77.8. Other rates in order were west-south central 79.8; mountain 80.8; middle Atlantic, 81.4; New England, 90.7; South Atlantic, 92.4, and east-south central, 92.6.

"Returns were secured from 22 of the 48 states. With the exception of five states, all are in the U. S. Birth Registration Area, the accuracy of whose records are accepted by the U. S. Census Bureau. In the states not heard from the machinery for securing records is incomplete. South Dakota, Nevada and Arizona have no satisfactory laws requiring complete reporting of births and deaths. Massachusetts is missing in the New England states. It is explained that the Bay State has a system by which records are deposited with town clerks, the health departments having no control over their collection.

"Adequate methods for registration of births in every state in the Union is one of the primary objectives of the American Child Health Association, a national organization working to advance child health care throughout the country. By developing better methods of health education for children in the schools and stimulating the interests of parents, teachers, and workers with children everywhere in the observance of fundamental health practices, the association is centering its effort on the building of a future citizenship in the nation whose improved standards of health will insure a progressive decreasing infant death rate in the community."

To be succeeded by a Ministry headed by Dr. Gustav Stresemann, leader of the People's Party and a leading industrialist. La Grange Murder Mystery.

One of the strangest mysteries of recent years was the murder of Policeman Byron Potter, of La Grange, Ill., who was shot to death by a burglar he caught robbing a store. The burglar, in an automobile belonging to George O. Hinchcliff, a prosperous and highly respected commercial photographer. Bloodhounds, placed on the trail, went four times to Hinchcliff's home, and the latter was temporarily arrested. It was found, too, that the slayer had broken arches and wore exactly the same kind of shoes as Hinchcliff. Despite this, Hinchcliff showed his automobile had been stolen and completely exonerated himself. He was released with apologies. In the group here shown is Chief of Police Matthews, of La Grange; Sergeant Dan Sullivan, Hinchcliff and Lieutenant Kennedy.

Chinese Idea of the Deluge.
The tradition of a deluge in China corresponding to the flood as related in the Bible is embodied in the Chinese book "Li-Ki," where it is stated: "And now the pillars of heaven were broken . . . the earth fell to pieces and the waters inclosed within its bosom, burst forth with violence and overflowed. Man having rebelled against heaven, the system of the universe was totally disordered, and the grand harmony of nature destroyed."

GAS STATION AT CURB A NUISANCE

The Newburgh News says: Under a ruling of the court of appeals, advance copies of which were received in Newburgh on Saturday, gas filling stations at curb lines are a nuisance and the city council not only has no right to permit their erection, but must order their removal.

This decision was first made a month ago by the appellate division in a mandamus action brought by John Kahabka of Buffalo to compel the council of that city to order removal of the gasoline filling stations scattered all over the place. The council refused. It had granted permission for the erection of the stations under the terms of an ordinance covering the point. The courts hold that the council had no right to take such action. The decision classifies these filling stations as nuisances just the same as watering troughs, hitching posts and stepping stones.

"Gasoline pumps located within the street lines of the city streets close to the curbstone and not within the part of the street reserved for vehicles but where they can be conveniently used in filling tanks of automobiles, constitute a nuisance," the decision says. "and the council has no right to authorize them to be maintained, and furthermore it is the duty of the council to have the curb pumps removed."

This case, because of its importance, was taken up by the court of appeals within a month after the appellate division had passed upon it. Because of the widespread interest in the subject, the court of appeals gave the case the right of way.

Simple Clothes Is Hint From Paris

Plan to Provide Apparel for All Doubtful In-Between Occasions.

For those doubtful in-between occasions Paris has one unfailing command—the simple, writes a fashion authority in the New York Tribune. Dining in a public place you are sure to be correct and fashionable in a straightline frock of unobtrusive crepe or the more inconspicuous figured material, entirely untrussed except for perhaps one distinctive bit. The demanded individual touch is often gained by a girdle, by a bit of clever drapery, or by a delicate collar.

There are many charming variations of the chemise frock for informal wear. A straightline dress is developed from beige crepe. A fichu of cream net finishes the neck and extends down the front of the bodice to the waistline. It is enlivened by a girdle of rose and purple ribbon.

Sometimes the chemise frock is offset with an apron tunic or perhaps two full gathered panels. One maker sets two full panels on a printed crepe frock of straight lines. They are suspended from outstanding pockets and make the rather severe line of the dress very interesting.

For the jeune fille there are lovely dresses made of georgette crepe trimmed with intricate hand decorations made from narrow folds of the georgette. Many of these are in what is known as robe a tablier style; that is, there is a little apron motif in the decoration. Lanvin never seems to tire of this effect for young girls. A typical model has, in addition to the little apron effect, a brilliant splash of embroidery, a bouquet of field flowers in vivid red, blue and yellow tones with equally vivid green foliage. There is a handkerchief pocket and the small handkerchief, also is embroidered in flowers of vivid tones.

With the informal frock the correct wrap is either a crepe coat, preferably black or dark blue, or a coat or cape of georgette crepe trimmed with braid. Hip-length capes to match the dress also are chic.

Wool dresses for morning wear often have accompanying under-blouses, which are renewed at the neck and protrude at the bottom of the sleeves. Often these blouses are of printed silks, adding color to the costume. Frequently they are of crisp, white organdie, thus giving the line a touch reminiscent of the Renaissance period when women were so proud of wearing underclothing that they insisted on their chemises showing through their lacings and over their necklines.

What Every Mother Should Know

FRESH, green salads are necessary for good health. They contain indispensable vitamins. Lettuce, tomatoes, celery, in fact all vegetables and fruits are plentiful and cheap.

Don't overwork in the hot kitchen. Serve plenty of healthful, cooling salads. Make them up yourself or buy from your delicatessen dealer.

The Dressing is Important

The zest of the salad depends on the dressing. Remember, there is no better salad oil in the world, at any price, than Mazola. And it combines Quality with Economy.

You are invited to try a can of Mazola, make a salad dressing—taste it, eat it on your salad. If it is not equal in every respect to the finest imported oils (which cost twice as much) we gladly return your money and pay you for your time and kindly co-operation.

THE CORN PRODUCTS REFINING COMPANY

Perfect French Dressing made in 2 minutes

8 tablespoons Mazola
1 tablespoon Lemon Juice or Vinegar
1½ teaspoon Salt
1 teaspoon Sugar
¼ teaspoon Paprika

Mix dry ingredients. Add Mazola and lemon juice or vinegar and beat until creamy. This dressing may be made in larger quantities and kept in a bottle and shaken as used.

This is the regulation recipe for French Dressing, but the proportions of oil and acid may be reversed to make it a little more tart for those desiring a sharper dressing. A little Chili Sauce or Cetchup also gives added piquancy.

On Friday at 6:15 the Schenectady K. C. will engage the Colonials of this city at the Fair Grounds in the second game of the series between these two clubs. The only time these clubs have met on the diamond this year was on May 5th when the Schenectady club defeated the local club by a 6-6 score. Smith and Halliday did the mound work for the Schenectady club last time and it is altogether likely that one of these men will receive the assignment on Friday. Either See or Forsythe will do the pitching for the local club.

The Schenectady club is a hard hitting outfit and it takes a good pitcher to hold them in check. The last time they played here every man on the team outside of the two pitchers managed to get a hit.

SIR BILL'S TEAM FALLS ONCE MORE

Due to the fact that they are unable to solve Culloton's riddle—Hammy Gets Only Two Hits—See and Fogarty Drive in Colonial Run—Schwab a Hero—Score 2-0.

Once more Sir Bill's (otherwise known as J. William Schatz's) team came up from the confines of the fair city of Poughkeepsie and once more they returned to the confines of that same fair city trailing the dust of defeat. (So wrote the poet.)

Getting down to brass tacks the story is as follows:

Bud Culloton held the Schatz Club to two hits; the Colonials found Jerry Kahn for eight hits; "Chad" See knocked a three-bagger with Matty Deegan on first; "Red" Fogarty knocked a sizzling single with Culloton on third; Billy Schwab made a circus catch in the sixth inning; the Colonials made just two errors; the score was 2-0.

As the ninth inning of another one of those real ball contests was drawing to a close on Wednesday afternoon at the Fair Grounds, J. William Schatz (otherwise known as Sir Bill) came over to the enemy's dug out and remarked that he couldn't seem to get enough breaks at Kingston to win a ball game. Someone reminded the Poughkeepsie magnate that no team could win a ball game with two hits. And such was, and still is, the truth.

Bud Pitches Excellent Ball.

Bud Culloton was in excellent form and as a result the Poughkeepsie group of sluggers forgot that they ever were sluggers. Time after time they would come up to bat and time after time the best thing they could do was either to retire to the bench or take a walk to first base and then stay there until the inning was over. Hammy was the only man who could even get a sidelong glance at the ball. He hit safely twice but as it was impossible for him to bunt his two hits they didn't help the visitors out much. Eight of the men from Poughkeepsie were retired by the strikeout route.

Billy Schwab's Catch.

While we are talking about the performances of the Colonials in the field we must not forget about the sensational catch which another Bill (not Sir Bill) made. It was the sixth inning and Clark was up to bat. Clark found one to his liking and sent out a fly to left field. For a few seconds it looked as though it was going straight for Bill Schwab, who played left Wednesday, but suddenly the wind caught it and she began to deviate toward the foul line somewhat and every one was ready to credit Clark with a hit. That is everybody except Bill. Bill went after it like a house afire, then just as she was dropping to ground made a leap after it, pulled it in, and then proceeded to roll over on the ground at least three times and then come up with the ball still in his hand. Bill sure did get some hand from the crowd when he came in.

Good Hitting.

The Colonials were not only there when it came to defensive play but also when it came to offensive work. The third and eighth innings were the only innings that they did not get at least one hit. Jerry Kahn the boy who pitched East Orange to a victory over the Doherty Silk Sox, was in the box for the Poughkeepsie Club.

Although the Colonials were getting about one hit per inning Jerry did not get into any real trouble until the fifth inning. Matty Deegan got on first in this inning by hitting to center field. Then "Chad" See came to bat. (As he walked to the bat Ruben Fergys passed the remark that "Chad" was in hitting spell and that he was coming across with a terrible boom.) Such proved to be the case for "Chad" connected with one that sailed over to the right field corner of the back fence and went for three bases scoring Deegan.

The other run came in the seventh inning. After Culloton got on first due to an error upon the part of the short stop, Deegan and See went out. Fogarty was the next batter and he hit a sizzling liner to short right field which scored Culloton.

Good work.

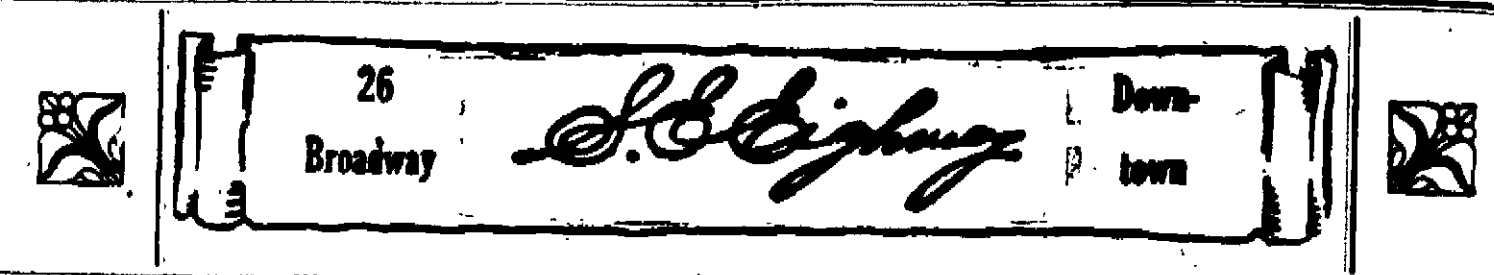

Schatz.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

IN THE BIG LEAGUES.

The Indians chased Pennock with a four run rally in the first inning and ultimately got the popular decision over the Yanks, 5 to 3. G. H. Ruth socked his twenty-fifth homer of the season with one on.

In an orgy of run-scoring the Cards twice nipped the Dodgers by a single tally, 11 to 10 and 7 to 6 and drew up on even terms with their friends, the enemy, in the league standing. Sherdel and Barfoot were the winning pitchers.

Two pair of Sox, the White and the Red, divided the afternoon's spoils, the White winning the opener in the fourth, 4 to 2, without the aid of a hit, and the Reds the second by treating Blankenship with a shameful lack of consideration. Score, 7 to 3.

It is alleged that Alexander had something to do with the Cubs' 8 to 2 victory over the Braves. He confined the latter to eight hits and in the fourth inning placed his club in the lead with a home run, his first in two years.

The habitual business of knocking off the Athletics was taken up by the Browns, who won two decisions from the pained employees of Mack. Scores 2 to 0 and 8 to 3. They represented ten straight defeats for the Athletics. The first game was protested by Mack because Danforth was shown the exit for alleged discolored of the ball.

Bentley limited the Pirates to 4 hits but 2 of them came in the sixth behind a pass and the Giants finished second, 2 to 1. Cooper pitched glittering ball.

The Reds clustered their blows and topped the Phillies 5 to 3. Luque relieving Benton in the eighth in time to frustrate a visiting uprising.
